

Cisco Unified MeetingPlace, Release 6.x > Cisco Unified MeetingPlace Audio Server > Planning the installation

Table: Database Information Types describes the four types of information in the Cisco Unified MeetingPlace database.

Table: Database Information Types

Information Type	Description
Company specific	Tailors Cisco Unified MeetingPlace for your company. It includes general information, administrative information, and information that controls meeting scheduling. See the Company-Specific Information .
System configuration	Identifies the Cisco Unified MeetingPlace hardware and software. It also describes the interface between the system, the phone network, and the LAN. See the System Configuration Information .
User	Identifies who has access to Cisco Unified MeetingPlace functions and which system functions are available to each person. See the User Information .
Meeting settings	Identifies the various meeting categories that have been created. See the Database Planning Worksheets .